

Tips to Make Sure Your HVAC SYSTEM

— is Ready for Spring —

With spring just around the corner, it's time to think about spring cleaning and getting your HVAC system ready for the warmer weather. Preparing now not only saves you time and money, but it may also save you a lot of aggravation if your cooling system fails in the middle of the summer.

Do you believe you'll need to turn on your air conditioner soon? Here are five tips to help you prepare your HVAC system for spring.

01 Change Your Filters

When you replace your old filters with new, clean ones each season, no dirt or dust enters your home. This allows your system to run more efficiently and provides cleaner air for you and your family to breathe.

02 Keep Your HVAC Units Clean

If your heating and cooling units are outside, clear any debris that has accumulated around the coils. Keeping leaves out of the system will undoubtedly improve its performance. To improve overall efficiency, clean your vents and registers of dust and other particles that accumulate, such as pet dander.

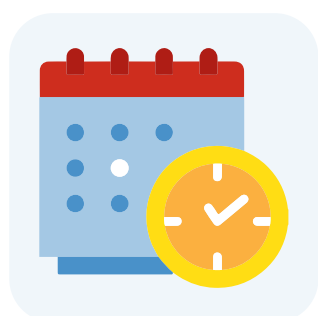

03 Check For Air Leaks and Insulate

Air leaks in your insulation can cause your HVAC to work harder and more inefficiently, raising your energy bills and costing you money.

04 Inspect Pipe Insulation and Condensate Lines

Any damaged insulation should be replaced to ensure that your system continues to run efficiently. If your condensate line, which is the small dripping line coming from your HVAC unit, is not working properly, it can cause drainage problems in your home. Inspecting this line can save you money on utility bills and property damage.

05 Schedule Preventative Maintenance

Preventative maintenance will extend the life of your HVAC system by detecting problems before they cause damage. A well-maintained air conditioner will not only perform better, but it will also save you money by running more efficiently.

Clark Heating, Air Conditioning & Plumbing can perform regular maintenance on your HVAC system to ensure it is ready for Spring and all other seasons throughout the year. To get started, call us or visit our website today!

334-449-7936

www.clarkcomfort.com